smart.firstnation.ca brings together

video conferencing,

on-line conferencing, chatting, conferences and gatherings.

Smart.firstnation.ca is another on-line service of K-Net, the Internet Communications Technology arm of Keewaytinook Okimakanak. The KO First Nations will share their experiences, best practices and challenges with visitors to the site. In turn, others can also begin sharing their stories as they develop their broadband infrastructure and local applications.

Published by

January 2003

Contact Information

Keewaytinook Okimakanak
K-Net Services
115 King Street, Box 1439
Sioux Lookout, Ontario
P8T 1B9
Tel: (807) 737-1135
Fax: (807) 737-1720
knet.ca
services.knet.ca

Visit the web site at www.smart.firstnation.ca

Broadband Connectivity in First Nations

Keewaytinook Okimakanak's virtual conference gathering place for Aboriginal community champions smart.firstnation.ca is intended to open a dialogue among those people in remote communities who are developing their strategy for broadband communications. This will include those who already have experience and lessons to share as well as those who are only considering the opportunities and how to access them.

Partners from across Canada are working together to develop broadband connectivity solutions with First Nations. Though the site is managed by K-Net, it will truly come to life when we all contribute to the Broadband Sharing Circle we hope it creates.

We need YOUR input and ideas. Go to smart.firstnation.ca and help the Broadband Sharing Circle Grow!

Contacts: E-mail
K-Net Director: brianbeaton@knet.ca
Site info: melstewart@knet.ca